This workshop, on the day before the next General Meeting in Christchurch, aims to assist NASC Managers think strategically about their future information management needs, taking a blue skies approach, and considering how all parts of the health and disability system could be available and accessible to all.

The workshop will have relevance to all streams of NASCA and is an opportunity to extend our thinking and understanding which will allow more meaningful and informed engagement with MOH when discussion arises about future information systems and needs. Specifically the workshop will not be selling or promoting any particular approach or product.

NASCA NOTICES

14 November 2014

Michael Kendrick – International speaker and consultant. Many in the disability sector know and appreciate the work of Michael Kendrick from Nova Scotia. He works across all areas of human services challenging people, systems and processes to value and support people as individuals. NASCA are taking the opportunity to engage Michael while he is in Australia / NZ on other business.

The theme of respectful relationships and the role of gatekeeper recognises that there are tensions inherent in responsibly recognising and 'advocating for' the best supports possible to meet the needs of people and their families, whilst also being guardians of limited state funds. How can NASCs act with dignity and maintain respectful relationships with people when the role includes allocation of scarce resource?

As part of this process, the Secretariat is distributing the Ministry's information and collating responses from NGOs, which will be passed on to the Ministry for consideration. This involves:

- Consultation on two Children's Action Plan initiatives
- Consultation on the content of Regulations for the proposed standardised safety check
