

NGO Health and Disability Network Annual Report: 1 July 2014 to 30 June 2015

1. Background

The NGO Health & Disability Network (formerly the Health and Disability NGO Working Group) has partnered with the Ministry of Health since 2002 to implement the Framework for Relations between the Ministry and Health and Disability NGOs.

This Framework provides a clear mandate for the Ministry of Health and our Network to engage on a range of issues. It identifies key areas where working together can strengthen the relationship with non-government organisations (NGOs.) These include communication, consultation and capacity/capability building.

Thirteen elected members on the NGO Council have responsibility for the 'executive' function, and are appointed for two-year terms. This annual report is from the NGO Council.

2. Vision, Mission and Outcomes

VISION: Health and disability NGOs are meaningful partners with the Ministry of Health and other government agencies in system-level policy development, planning and delivery of health and disability services in New Zealand.

PURPOSE: As an outcome of our collective impact with the Ministry of Health (and other government agencies) we will improve the effectiveness of health and disability NGOs' services and achieve better health outcomes for all people in New Zealand.

OUTCOMES 2013-2016

- NGOs are sought/engaged in/contribute to strategic and operational matters concerning the Ministry of Health and NGOs' development and service delivery.
- NGO voices are involved in policy development.
- A coherent and connected NGO sector, which represents a fundamental element of health and disability services funded in New Zealand, has the building of community capacity and capability as a priority.
- There is cross-government engagement with the health and disability NGO sector at all levels, not just at the 'coal face'.
- Relationships based upon courtesy, respect, integrity, transparency and trust are the experience of all people engaged with the health and disability sector.

3. Overview from the Chair: Positives and negatives in the past year

Looking back on the past year, the activity the NGO Council received the most positive feedback on was the additional series of free Good Governance workshops that we ran in April and May. For many NGOs, this was a worthwhile capability building exercise that had real value. It was also pleasing to re-contact those who'd attended the 2014 workshops and hear how effective many thought these had been in helping to strengthen their non-profit organisations. This initiative of 10 workshops over the past two years has now provided tangible support to 302 people from approximately 163 non-profit organisations.

Another satisfying experience this year was facilitating NGO engagement in the NZ Health Strategy review by helping to ensure strong NGO participation in the consultation workshops. While it remains to be seen what government does with this information, the views of the NGO sector were definitely heard during this process.

Through the ongoing implementation of the Framework for Relations between the Ministry and Health and Disability NGOs, the NGO Council has engaged with a greater number of key Ministry personnel throughout the year on range of topics. While this growing awareness of our sector is good, there is still a need to increase opportunities for early and meaningful NGO input on significant issues/topics that can make a real difference to our communities.

During our recent planning discussions, your elected NGO Council renewed its commitment to stay focused on the big picture and strategic priorities (topics such as workforce planning and procurement processes) and seek out opportunities for greater input and influence.

As part of the process of preparing this report, we analysed publicly available Charities Register data about our membership, and made some sobering observations. Although our membership numbers have risen from 405 to 475 members, the total reported funding received through bequests and donations/koha has dropped, as have the number of volunteers and the total hours of support they provided. This inevitably places pressure on the finances of NGO services and greater reliance on government contracts to continue to provide services – a fact illustrated by 36% of member NGOs reporting a net annual operating deficit in their last annual financial report. (See data in section 6.)

Looking ahead, we have our annual Council elections in October and the National Forum on 18 September, which will focus on measurement, evaluation and outcomes, including how to use high value public data to inform your planning and reporting,

We hope to see many of you there, ngā mihi.

Donna Matahaere-Atariki
Chair of the NGO Health & Disability Council

4. Key activities

During the year, the NGO Council:

- ran a further four Good Governance workshops.
- made submissions on the Productivity Commission's review into More Effective Social Services.
- shared the views and experiences of the health and disability NGO sector with various personnel from different parts of the Ministry of Health.
- grew Network membership to 475 full members and 99 affiliates.
- ran an election to fill eight vacancies on the NGO Council.
- collated feedback on draft guidelines for developing Child Protection Policies and conducting Worker Safety Checks and delivered this to the Ministry of Health.
- delivered information and guidance to Network members on a variety of topics, including new accounting standards, Healthy Families, the Vulnerable Children Act, workforce development, input to planning, DHB representation, contracting and consultations.
- provided regular updates to the website and shared relevant news with the sector via Twitter and Facebook.

5. Formal relationship with the Ministry of Health

The Director-General of Health re-affirmed the Relationship Framework with the NGO sector in August 2013 – confirming the ongoing relevance of this 2002 document.

The current two-year Letter of Agreement between the Ministry of Health and the NGO Council runs to 31 December 2016. It specifies Services comprising three parts:

- the secretariat function for the NGO Council
- facilitating and organising the NGO forums with the Ministry’s NGO Relationship Manager
- project work to be agreed with the Ministry as and when required.

The Ministry’s NGO Desk is responsible for the regular communications to the sector via the newsletter, and liaison between the NGO Council and the Minister and the Ministry.

6. Network membership

The NGO Health & Disability Network grew to 475 full members and 99 affiliates by 30 June 2015¹. This continued the pattern of growth, we have experienced over the past few years.

NGOs that receive Vote Health funding (i.e. have contracts with the Ministry of Health and/or DHBs) can register in a maximum of two categories, and are registered to vote as follows:

▼ 213 in Disability Support Services	▼ 106 in Māori Health
▼ 134 in Mental Health and Addictions	▼ 95 in Personal Health
▼ 112 in Public Health	▼ 24 in Pacific Health

Ninety-eight percent of Network members are registered charities. Based on data from the Charities Register², we know the following about our 475 Network members:

- Member NGOs received $1.49 billion in combined annual government funding.
- All combined, 53 member NGOs received nearly $39 million in bequests. (Down from $46m across fewer members in 2014.)
- 272 member NGOs received almost $74 million in combined donations/koha. (Down from $78m across fewer members in 2014.)
- Altogether, 272 member NGOs received over $63 million in other grants and sponsorship.
- Member NGOs paid more than $1.26 billion in annual salaries and wages to 18,284 full-time staff and 15,127 part-time staff.
- In an average week, a total of 1.22 million hours were worked by paid staff and 121,392 hours provided by over 27,983 unpaid volunteers. (Volunteer numbers down from 29,000 across 405 members in 2014.)
- 36% of member NGOs had a net annual operating deficit in their last reported financial year, so had to draw on reserves to continue delivering services. (Up from 30% in 2014.)

The activities of the NGO Network extend far beyond the voting membership as many non-members attend Forums and workshops and provide feedback via Network projects and surveys.

The DIA Charities website shows 1,912 registered charities are working in the health sector (7.1% of all 26,944 charities in NZ) and 902 registered charities are working with people with disabilities. The Non-Profit Institutions Satellite Account: 2004 published by Statistics NZ³ identified 2,210 health sector non-profits. Recent Ministry of Health figures indicate less than half of these are Vote Health funded. We continue to engage new members to strengthen our collective voice in discussions with the Ministry and other key stakeholders.

7. NGO Council elections

Four hundred and seventy-five health and disability NGOs were registered to participate in the annual elections of Council members in October 2014.

- 26 candidates for 8 NGO Council vacancies stood for election in October 2014. (Up from 15 candidates for 6 vacancies in 2013).
- Disability Support representative Clare Teague did not re-stand due to a forthcoming change of employment. Current representatives Mark Brown (Disability Support) and Kathryn Jones (Personal Health) were re-elected, seconded member Warren Lindberg (Public Health) was elected and five new members * were elected. Public Health representative Sione Tu'itahi and Māori Health representative Chris Maxwell were not re-elected.
- Changes to the Terms of Reference, limiting NGO Council membership to two consecutive terms (four years) and clarifying expectations of meeting attendance were ratified during the elections.
- The Chair and Vice-Chair roles were confirmed at the 26 November meeting, with the change of Chair resulting in a new Letter of Agreement being required.
- Voter participation in 2014 was as follows:
 - 62% of the 24 eligible Pacific Health NGOs cast a vote
 - 45% of the 106 eligible Māori Health NGOs cast a vote (up from 42% in 2013)
 - 35% of the 95 eligible Personal Health NGOs cast a vote (down from 52% in 2013)
 - 42% of the 112 eligible Public Health NGOs cast a vote (same as 42% in 2012)
 - 44% of 213 eligible Disability Support NGOs cast a vote (down from 57% in 2012)

8. Project workstreams

A detailed report on our 2014-15 Work Plan is on our website. Project activity was focused in four key areas.

- Good Governance workshops

Four Good Governance workshops were held in April/May 2015. The Christchurch and Wellington workshops were presented by Megan Thomas, while the Auckland and Whanganui workshops were presented by Carol Scholes for UNITEC.

The knowledge and experience of these popular 2014 presenters was again highly appreciated by attendees. The feedback on each day was very positive and this was backed up by the written evaluations. The 123 attendees from 71 NGOs covered a broad range of organisations and their experience varied greatly.

In March/April, an online survey was circulated to the 179 people who attended the 2014 Good Governance workshops to identify whether they had any lasting effect on attendees or the NGOs they came from. A total of 48 responses were received, including participants from all six 2014 workshop locations.

³ In July 2014, Statistics NZ announced its intention to update the official measure of the not-for-profit sector.

Overall, responses indicated that the workshops were useful – particularly in helping attendees differentiate between management and governance and to increase confidence in their roles. There was a high level of information sharing with other board members who did not attend, and many indicated that the free nature of the workshops was an important factor in enabling them to attend.

In total, the NGO Health & Disability Network has now run 10 Good Governance workshops, which have been attended by 302 people from approximately 163 organisations.

- Successful Skill Sharing Through Secondments/video project
This project did not progress as originally anticipated and the NGO Council and Ministry personnel ultimately agreed to halt development of a video about the NGO sector for use within the Ministry and to support secondments to the sector. Funding received for this project is being held awaiting re-allocation to a new project.
- Supporting NGOs to meet Vulnerable Children Act requirements
Most activity related to collecting and disseminating information about the Worker Safety Checks required under the Vulnerable Children Act.
- NZ Navigator
Phase 2 development of the NZ Navigator online self-assessment tool, which was funded in the previous financial year, was completed and went live with new multi-user functionality.

9. NGO Council members' meeting attendance

In the period from 1 July 2014 to 30 June 2015, the NGO Council held seven face-to-face meetings. NGO Council members attended as shown below.

10. NGO Council meetings

In October 2014, a facilitated meeting was held to define a clear process for resolving situations where the Ministry of Health and the NGO Council disagree on specific issues, or if a complaint is raised to the NGO Council. (Amendments were subsequently made to the Letter of Agreement and the Terms of Reference, and will be ratified by members at the next election.)

The Ministry of Health's Caroline Speight (NGO Relationship Manager), Mark Powell (Group Manager – Contract and Information Support, National Health Board) and Jill Lane (Director, National Services Purchasing, National Health Board at the Ministry of Health) attend meetings as their schedules allow.

Meeting guests included:

- Graeme Osborne (Director, National Health IT Board) to discuss challenges NGOs face considering privacy issues related to IT and sharing information.
- Grant Pollard, Group Manager, Public Health, Ministry of Health who spoke about the new Healthy Families programme.
- James Soligo, Principal Advisor and Geoff Lewis, Inquiry Director from the Productivity Commission.
- Graeme Benny (Director, Health Workforce NZ) and Ruth Anderson (Group Manager, Health Workforce NZ) discussing HWNZ's expanded mandate to oversee planning for the whole health workforce, including allied health and care and support workers.
- Daria Martin (Programme Manager, Careerforce) and Tania Hayes (Project Co-ordinator, Careerforce) to talk about the Kaiawhina Action Plan (previously referred to as the unregulated or non-regulated workforce), which includes many care and support workers across the community health sector.
- Chai Chuah (Director-General of Health) discussed the relationship with NGO sector.
- Jane Dugdale, Dave Clarke and Doug Gorman (Lead Strategic Advisor, Children's Action Plan) invited the NGO Council to sign up as a representative party to Children's Action Plan AISA.
- Adrienne Percy (Programme Manager – Contract Streamlining Project,) and Malcolm Morrison provided updates on progress with streamlined contracting.
- Keriana Brooking and Andrew Inder from Maori Health Business Unit discussed the Models of Care project.
- NZ Health Strategy Workstream leads: Caroline Boyd and Fran McGrath discussed the review process.
- Stuart Powell discussed business viability standards for NGOs contracting with government.
- John Hazeldine of the National Health Board to discuss the challenges of engaging with DHBs.

- Tony O'Rourke and Yvonne Bruorton (Chief Advisor Employment Relations, DHB Performance, National Health Board) met regarding Vulnerable Children consultations and the introduction of worker safety checks under the Vulnerable Children Act.

The NGO Council also met with Peter Glensor – the new general manager of Hui E! in April.

The NGO Council shared insights from meetings with Network members via the Chair's regular Updates.

11. Key representations and other activities

Outside of meetings and projects, the NGO Council endeavours to progress issues and promote the views of the wider health and disability NGO sector. It also encourages the wider sector to contribute directly through formal submissions and participating in sector initiatives. Activity included:

- Collating feedback on draft guidelines for developing Child Protection Policies and conducting Worker Safety Checks and delivering this to the Ministry of Health.
- Making submissions to the Productivity Commission on the More Effective Social Services review.
- Encouraging submissions to Treasury on ways social investment can improve results for vulnerable children and to the Children's Action Plan Directorate on approved information sharing.
- Circulating information on the deadline for submissions for NZ's Fifth Periodic Report under the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCROC).
- Circulating the Health Minister's Letter of Expectations to DHBs to members with links to DHB planning documents on web.
- Managing the expressions of interest process for NGO participation in NZ Health Strategy review workshops.
- Participating in Hui E! national community sector networks meeting.
- Circulating an urgent call for comments on Vulnerable Children worker safety check regulations and guidelines, and subsequently circulating the guidelines and information sheet to all Network members.

During the reporting period, various consultations, workshops and other activities were promoted on Facebook and Twitter.
